

Rich Feuer Anderson Expands Lobbying Team - Announces RaShawn Mitchell to Join Firm as Senior Vice President

WASHINGTON, July 20 -- Rich Feuer Anderson, LLC ("RFA") announced today that, RaShawn Mitchell, has joined the firm as a Senior Vice President. RaShawn is a successful democratic strategist and advocate who will help lead the firm's expansion into energy, ESG, business sustainability and tax sectors.

RFA is a bipartisan strategic advocacy and advisory boutique focused on measurable policy outcomes in an ever-changing political environment. RaShawn joins the accomplished RFA team from the American Gaming Association (AGA) where he served as Senior Director. Before joining the AGA, RaShawn served as former Congressman Joe Cunningham's (D-SC) Deputy Chief of Staff and Legislative Director. In this capacity, RaShawn managed an ambitious legislative team directing the congressman's policy agenda before the House Natural Resources and Veteran's Affairs Committees. RaShawn also served in key roles within the Obama Administration, in NASA's Office of Congressional Affairs and as a Special Assistant at the White House Office of Management and Budget (OMB). RaShawn also spent time at national non-profit associations, lobbying for the Natural Resources Defense Council and the National Wildlife Federation. He focused on clean energy, environmental justice, and flood mitigation. In 2018, RaShawn was recognized in The Hill's list of Top Lobbyists. RaShawn got his start on Capitol Hill working for former Congressman Kendrick B. Meek (D-FL), who served on the House Ways & Means Committee and was chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation.

"The RFA team is expanding and focused on increasingly important new policy areas. RaShawn is known in Washington as an accomplished lobbyist with over a decade of success on the Hill, in the Obama Administration and the private sector," said partner Peter Rich.

"We are thrilled to have RaShawn join the RFA team. His political acumen stands out and Rashawn is well positioned to serve our clients from day one as a pragmatic, knowledgeable and experienced lobbyist," added partner John Anderson.

"Since I started my career in D.C., I've had the great opportunity to be a part of both public and private sector teams, where I was able to build a vast network of relationships in and around the federal government. In a world where precision, access, and strategy are everything – I couldn't be more excited to have the opportunity to join such an esteemed firm such as RFA, known for its policy knowledge and strategic advocacy on behalf of its clients. RFA's collective corporate and government experience makes them a leader in helping clients achieve their public policy objectives," said RaShawn.

RaShawn is from Clearwater, FL and received his B.A. from Florida A&M University.
